CLUB WOMANS PROUD DAY

TAKE POSESSION OF NEW CLUB ..HOUSE AND HAVE FEDER—.. ..ATION PRESIDENT KNIGHT.. . AT FIRST MEETING AS GUEST OF HONOR

The fifteenth day of September, 1916 was a proud day for the club women of Sonoma, for it will go down in history as the day they came into their own long cherished dream of possessing their own home-a club house beautiful- and altogether a trysting place of which any organization might well feel proud. Its dignified and artistic lines reflect the good taste of its members and yet affords ample foundation on which in the future to build a quiet elegance.

It was a never to be forgotten scene, that first meeting there yesterday and pride and joy intermingled in the countenances of the charter members of Sonoma Valley's loyal women who over fifteen years ago began to hope for what is now a splendid achievment. The newer members too participated in the rejoicing and the guest of honor Mrs. Edwin Dexter Knight was most complimentary in her very engaging address to the club ladies. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting andinspection of the fine auditorium and the building in general followed.

Next Friday night a public reception will be held.

Mrs. T. D. Hall is the next hostess for St. Barbara's Guild.

M. Topete will be the Chef at the Moose barbecue tomorrow.

Al Miller and Wm. Fowler were in charge of the barbecue at the Oaks last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Cuicci and A. Clerici are enjoying a pleasant outing at Adams Springs, Lake County.

Miss Amy Engler and Arthur Drake were visitors at the Drake home in Modesto over the week end. They motored down leaving here at 7 a. m. and arriving there a little past 1.

Miss L. Denzler of Oakland spent a few days at the home of her aunt Mrs. E. Alber.

Mrs. E. Alber entertained Miss A. Weggemenn and Mr. J. Aubenstein of San Francisco Saturday and Sunday after their motor trip to Santa Rosa

Joe Lock and Sang tai Lung are charged with having opium in their possession by the State Board of Pharmacy. They will plead not guilty and be represented by attorney Frank Sprague.

ENGLER NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

Automobile Speeders Run Down Retired Vineyardist and Companion Sunday

George Engler, the pioneer retired viticulturist had a narrow escape from death Sunday when the rig in which he was driving with Peter Fognini was struck and completely demolished by an automobile which was traveling over 40 miles an hour near Fetters Springs. Mr. Engler was thrown out and badly bruised about the limbs. His companion was cut about the face and shoulders while the horse was badly crippled in the accident.

The speeders stopped their machine following the collision and gave assurance that they would make all possible amends. An immense crowd gathered and first aid treatment was given the injured at Fetters club house. Messrs Engler and Fognini were later removed to their homes and have been under the care of surgeons.

Almost the same day "Cap" Engler of the Northwestern Pacific met with a painful accident to one of his legs and came home to console with his father.

Mr. Engler's many friends will be glad to hear that he is resting easy and Mr. Fognini is slowly recovering also.

An eye witness to the accident declared that he saw the speeders and predicted but a few seconds previous that they would injure some one. The crash accompaning the the accident followed before they had gone by him 100 yards.

Float of Pioneer Days Gives Trophy to Sonoma

Native Sons and Daughters Well Merited Honor Bestowed by Admission Day Committee at Santa Rosa

Honors all went to Sonoma at the greatest Admission day celebration ever held in Santa Rosa Saturday and through the fine representation our Parlors of Native Sons and Danghters had in the parade, the first prize trophy, a handsome silver cup, was presented to Sonoma Parlor No. 111. It was a fitting tribute to the enthusiastic young men and women of Sonoma who inspired with real love of their own California bnilded on the historic ground a float typical of the romantic, stirring days of the beginning of this state; a float which was a true replica of our cherished mission and its famous environment. They added to this the touch of realism by costuming with picturesque exactness the heroic pioneer men and women whoblazed the trail into this wonderful land of opportunity even before the days of 1849.

Sonoma's division in the parade was headed by the splendid drum corps in neat uniforms. Then came thegayly decked horses driven by their proud owner Chas. Groskopf drawing the historic replica of Sonoma's historic Mission and Bear Flag. Green growing grass lent minature landmarks which were wonderfully true to life both as to color and contour. History seemed to live again as the pageant of realistic figures swept by amid tumultous applause and enthusiastic praise from automobiles all along the line of march.

The Native Sons were a colorful picturesque crowd in red and blue flannel shirts, tight gay patterned trousers and big black sombrero hats while here and there a gambler or a trapper showed up in effective contrast. The Native Daughters were in pioneer costume both fanciful and homespun. Their sunbonnets made a most effective picture. Misses Rose Basaglia and Helen Kerner were the quaint banner bearers. Mrs. Estes Brereton of Vallejo was also in line with Sonoma Parlor of which she is a member and contributed much merriment with her fetching costume and coquettish mannerisms. The costume of real home spun over 100 years old worn by Mrs. Susie Batchelor was also a pronounced hit. The dress was spun and made by the mother of the late Arvilla McHarvey whose heirs kindly loaned it for the occasion.

Mrs. L. H. Green of Alta Parlor San Francisco paraded in pioneer costume with Sonoma's Native Daughters.

After the counter march it was a foregone conclusion that Sonoma would be accorded the first prize for its fine feature and true to prediction the handsome silver trophy was pronounced ours by the gentlemen on the committee of awards.

The press of the county is a unit in declaring that Sonoma's honor was richly deserved.

Our success again demonstrates what Sonoma can accomplishwith the proper amountof enthusiasm and team work.

The Admission Day celebration was followed by a gala night and day both in Santa Rosa and all through the Sonoma Valley. Agua Caliente Springs, headquarters of Stanford Parlor, was in gala holiday attire and fine music, dancing, athletics and feasting made the sojourn a never-to-be-forgotten occasion. A special Northwestern train was side tracked there for the accomodation of the visitors and as usual Stanford parlor dispensed royal entertainment The big gamdrids and the handgement was praised for its exceptional service and courtesy.

JOE KEECHLER TO TAKE VACATION

Joe Keechler of the Jones ranch will take a much needed vacation of about ten days. He will take his fomily and also Miss Josephine Steiner to Santa Cruz and Hollister. They will make the trip in the big Hudson car. Miss Steiner has resigned from the telephone company.

Alphonse Dumas has purchased his partner's in the pool room which he will now conduct himself.

Adolph Hirsch, the accomodating clerk at Pasch's department store has gone down to San Diego for a vacation.

There was a joyous meeting Saturday in Santa Rosa between Mrs. Susie Batchelor and her soldier boy son, Wayne who is back from the Border and encamped now at Sacramento with Company E.

More Efficient Service With New Equipment

THE INDEX—TRIBUNE, living up to its promise to give Sonoma Valley the best and biggest newspaper in this section, has installed a Mergenthaler type setting machine. The new linotype will enable us to print more news and its purchase is warranted by our ever growing subscription list and advertising patronage. We appreciate this fine response to good journalism.

The installation of the Mergenthaler will enable us to keep pace with the ever broadening scope of news with which Sonoma Valley abounds. The news is here and there are also many outside topics on which our home people should be kept informed.

It will be conceded that the Index-Tribune has ever been newsy, and now with no mechanical limitations it will be bigger and better than ever.

It will be a decided opportunity for the business people of Sonoma to interest our residents in trading at home, and we know with the entertaining and interesting reading matter we can now give our subscribers that advertising will be brought to their attention more forcibly and more entertainingly than ever.

Read the Index-Tribune and you will get all the news all the time and it will be told with individuality and in a spirited way. We aim to devote these columns to the upbuilding of the most healthful and beautiful valley in all of California and we are glad to be well equipped to perform this exalted mission. It is true that our policies may not at all times coincide with a percentage of community opinion but our convictions are ever sincere and as we see it for the greatest good of the greatest number

If disturbed by some idea that conflicts with your own, stop and consider that a valiant champion may perhaps be arrayed on your side in other matters at some future time and can be of real value to you because of influence and efficiency.

We are building on an old and firm foundation, won by years of tireless tried and true championship of the people's welfare. It is the recognition of this and the confidence of these same people in the Index-Tribune's future loyalty to them and to Sonoma Valley that has made our new equipment possible. We thank our many friends and are proud to make the announcement of the installing of our new Mergenthaler just one year after succeeding to the Index.

THE return and stability of progress and prestage which a Republican administration will bring to the United States must never be jeopardized by the senseless jargon of non partisanship. A good man is not neccessarily a great man. When we embark we want direction most particularly on the sea of nationalism. We do not want water spouts or storms or dangerous undercurrent or spectacular martyrdom acking down some channel of idealism. We look for our representatives from California to bring us prosperity on the broad flood tide of Republicanism which if adhered to can produce fine results for California. If Johnson as United States Senator will apply his energies toward this end he can be of good service.

There is no doubt but that Edward H. Hart will be a most valuable factor in Washington and will be in striking contrast to the partyless type of politician who has been representing (himself) us at the National Capitol.

There may a scare on the horizon just antedating the November election for the purpose of rallying a peace multitude to Wilson, but such a bluff being the one hope of the Democrats to continue in power would be obviously a false alarm and would be dealt with accordingly.

Maine's great Republican landslide is most prophetic of a trium phant November.

CALIFORNIA has enough laws on the statutes books now to close up every saloon and public drinking place in the State, according to statements made by people at the Capitol who have been discussing the question and consulting the authorities in the State Law Library. With the Wyllie Local Option Law, the initiative and referendum and other legal machinery, to say nothing of the regulations in many towns and counties, California is said to have more laws at the present time affecting this prob lem than any other State in the union. Added to these measures is the recall to reach local officers who do not enforce the law.

It is therefore folly to pass more laws to surely ruin a great industry and surely not stop drinking.

The Daughters of Pocahontas will give the grand New Year's eve. ball this year at Union Hall.

Rev. T. P. Moran was a recent caller at the residence of Father Sesnon in Sebastopol who has been on the sick list.

George Bulotti of San Francisco spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Bulotti.

Miss Anita Breitenbach and sister have been guests at the Kopf home in Santa Rosa.

Manuel Pastro, of Oakland was here with his orchestra for the Admission day celebration at the Oaks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schetter of Oakland were visiting old friends and relatives in the Valley this week. Mr. Schetter is a grandson of the late Nicholas Carriger, one of our prominent pioneers. This is Mr. Schetter's first visit to Sonoma since he left here as a boy 18 years ago.

Walter Johnson, manager of Mannies Special, a racing paper, accompanied by his wife and his friend Herr Victor von Schott, a violinist of note, motored up from Alameda Sunday last.

The N. J. Heggie's motored to Santa Cruz over the holiday and saw some of the disastrous fires which have been threatening the Big Basin and other portions of the country down that way.

Mrs. McGowan left Boyes Springs on Thursday after a pleasant sojourn there. She will be greatly missed by those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance while here.

Norrbom brothers, the contracting plasterers are working on the pretty bungalow being built for James Maffei. They also plastered the summer home ex-mayor McCarthy at Sonoma Vista.

THREE BLIND PIG SUSPECTS

COMPLAINTS FILED WEDNESDAY CHARGE ILLICIT SALE OF LIQUOR

District Attorney Lea prepared three complaints Wednesday charging Steve Anazitos, A. Clemente and Mrs. Acquistopace with "blind pigging", constable Murray swore to the complaints which allege violation of the ordinance governing the sale of liquor, violation of which is punishable by a maximum fine of $500 and six months in the county jail. The alleged offenders are prominent resort and restaurant proprietors in the vicinity of Boyes, Fetters and Agua Caliente Springs.

Suspicion has been directed against many places in Sonoma Valley which have a reputation for being able to get away with it and it is the consensus of opinion that the clean up should be general and not directed against any particular offenders. In justice to our liquor people who pay their licenses and conduct their places right, blind pigging when proven should be sharply dealt with.

Steve Anazitos plead not guilty. His bondsmen are Joe Ryan and Jep Valente. Mrs. Acquistapace has not entered her plea. Messrs A. Beretta and Chas. Dal Pogetto will go on her bonds A. Clementi the third defendant plead not guilty and John Deconini and B. Gianechini went on his bond.

VICTORY IS WON FOR WINE INTERESTS

California grape growers and wine makers are jubilant today over the victory won when the crushing wine tax, which was an emergency measure, was removed. Some uncertainty was expressed, however on just how the new revenue measure will be administered.

The bill also provides for a rebate of 45c of the 55c paid on grape brandy. This is the difference between the old tax of 55c and the new one of 10c. This means a saving to the brandy makers of the state of $1,175,978.79.

The new wine and brandy tax schedule received yesterday from Washington by Collector of Internal Revenue J. J. Scott, is as follows:

Dry wines up to 14 per cent alcohol, 4 cents per gallon; sweet wines from 14 to 21 per cent alcohol, 10centc per gallon; sweet wines from 21 to24 per cent alcohol, 25 cents per gallon; sweet wines above 24 per cent alcohol $1.10 per gallon;brandy used in the fortification of sweet wine, 10 cents per gallon; natural sparkling wine or champagne, 3 cents per half pint; artificially carbonated wines, 1½c per half pint; liquors or cordials containing sweet wines, 1½c. per half pint.

.... Brandy Tax Remains ....

Under the prohibitive emergency revenue tax of October 22, 1914, brandy used in the fortification of sweet wines paid a tax of 55 cents per gallon; sweet wine about 22 cents per gallon, and dry wine 8 cents per gallon. The tax on brandy to be used as such remains the sameas before, $1.10 per gallon. As the standard alcoholic strength of California sweet wine is 20 per cent the sweet wine makers will now have to pay but 10 cents per gallon, only slightly increased by the 10 cents per gallon on the brandy used in fortification.

The fight by the California grape men, which has just closed with the passage of the bill, has been maintained continuously since last November by the State Viticultural Commission and the state delegation in Congress. Much credit is given by the grape men to Hilliard Welch, a Lodi banker, whose efforts in Washington are said to have been largely responsible for winning the support of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the contentions of California.

"CONTINUE GOOD ROAD BUILDING"

PLEA MADE TO SUPERVISORS BY REPRESENTATIVE COMMITTEE OF OUR CITIZENS

The new piece of road being built by Supervisor Weise has demonstrated what can be done for Sonoma Valley and our people have not been slow to realize it, so a big delegation visited the Board in session Wednesday and made a strong plea for the extension of the fine thoroughfare on up toward Santa Rosa where Supervisor Hutchinson's road fund might be used toward the completion of the road in that district. Hutchinson expressed himself as willing to cooperate with Supervisor Harry Weise in every way possible. Mr. Weise will continue the road as far as funds will permit. He is being highly commended for the good move in giving this Valley a modern type road which is acknowledged by experts to be all that a $1,500 per mile road could possibly be and a dollar for dollar value.

The delegation visiting the Supervisors session Wednesday woke up to the fact that the Petaluma contingent has no sympathy with Sonoma Valley improvement and it is becoming more apparent every day that Sonoma Valley must elect its own Supervisor if it wants results and proper development. A Supervisor from the other side neighboring with Supervisor Doss would be a fine thing for Cotati, Penn Grove and Petaluma but Sonoma Valley with its vote of 2000 cannot afford to let our direct representation slip away from us.

The Supervisors told the committee Wednesday that they could not draw on the general fund to continue our road building, but Supervisor Weise will get all the money possibly available and continue the good work. The Chamber of Commerce of Santa Rosa is enthusiastic over our efforts to improve travel through our beautiful valley and the improvement should be planned to get traffic off the State Highway by making simultaneously the Schellville lateral an attractive detour for motorists.

BIG FIRE LOSS AT BOYES SPRINGS

Sam Button Loses Stables, Cottages and Other Buildings in Conflagration Monday Morning

S. E. Button, proprietor of the Woodleaf Stables at Boyes Springs suffered the loss of several thousand dollars worth of property in a fire of unknown origin last Monday morning which broke out in the livery stable and communicated to two cottages and other buildings. The blaze was discovered about 11:30 a. m. in the loft of the stable which with its contents of hay was soon a mass of flames which communicated to the adjoining bungalow occupied by the Button family and to a cottage in the rear. The horses were all liberated and escaped injury with the exception of one which belonged to a Petaluma man. The rigs and many sets of harness, hay and grain and the paint shop went up in smoke. The contents of the Button home however were removed to a place of safety by many volunteer fire fighters who came from every direction to lend assistance in battling with the flames. The presence of a 1200 gallon water wagon which was hurried to the scene by the road construction crew in the vicinity saved much property endangered by the flames. Herman Schroff and Snooks Locherfior headed the water wagon brigade and did very effective work. The Buttons were partially insured

Fred can be depended on to do his duty.

RESTRAINING ORDER AGAINST CITY

Duhring Takes Out Injunction to Prevent Demolition of Concrete Work

Mayor von Hacht proceeded Monday to carry out his ediet to have torn out a cement approach built by F. T. Duhring contrary to the type required by the city and was met by a counter attack from the property owner who armed with an injunction issued by the Superior Court defied the municipal authorities. Von Hacht warned Mr. Duhring that 24 hours time would be given to tear out the work which if not done by him would be promptly demolished officially. The approach suited Mr. Duhring so well that he decided to let it "stay put" and test out the power of the city to make him change it for the kind in general use.

The Mayor tarried until Monday before dispatching his wrecking crew to the scene of the alleged violation and an official crow-bar bearer sent gleefully to the scene by his Honor was astounded to find Deputy Sheriff Murray on the job with a restraining order forbidding the ruthless work of the powers-that-be on the cherished cement work of Mr. Duhring.

Mr. Duhring and C. T. Ryland were moreover holding down the approach right in the front row for the sally in their alley. But it was a bloodless engagement, the city withdrawing to take up its troubles with the official adviser, City attorney Cowgill. Ten days notice is given the city to answer and meanwhile the legal authorities are being combed for helpful citations that may result in victory for the Mayor and his colleagues and the city of Sonoma. City attorney Cowgill says he will storm the citadel yet, while Mr. Duhring and his sister, Mrs. Ryland declare that no iconoclasts official or otherwise, will put one over on them Meanwhile the merits and defects of the type of approach causing the trouble are being generally discussed and the fact that no city ordinance but merely a resolution was violated may have considerable bearing on the decision of the case.

The City Trustees met at a special meeting Monday evening and fixed the tax rate for the ensuing year at $1.40 on the $100 assessment. The rate was decided after setting aside different budgets for each department of the city improvements. The figures are the same as last year. It was hoped that a reduction could be made this year, but recent fires and other causes decreased the assessed valuation of the town considerably.

The combined city and county taxes amount to $3.00 on each $1.00 assessed valuation. The county rate is $1.60.

A Great Educator on Prohibition

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, perhaps the most widely known educator in the United States, is one of many great men who are opposed to prohibition. He has frequently discussed temperance and as frequently stated that prohibition does not aid the cause of temperance.

He recently said:

"The efforts to enforce prohibition during forty years past have had some unlooked-for effects on public respect for courts, judicial procedure, oaths and law, legislature and public servants. The public have seen law defied, a whole generation of habitual lawbreakers schooled in evasion and shamelessness, courts ineffective through fluctuations of policy, delays, perjuries, negligencies and other miscarriages of justice; officers of the law double-faced and mercenary; legislators, timid and insincere. Such is the character and record of prohibition."

"The general position of Massachusetts in regard to the sale and use of alcohol is in favor of local option, and I am glad that in this she leads all the States. More and more I am persuaded that it is the wisest and most successful policy in the cause of temperance. We hear a good deal about compelling men to be good—forcible collective action to improve the individual—and many of these forces are wise and good. But freedom is the greatest privilege of man—the right to work out his own destiny. It is also best for the general public."

"A whole generation of habitual lawbreakers—schooled in evasion and shamelessness"—this is one of the results of prohibition according to the scholarly observation of Dr. Eliot. Do you want generations of this sort, to grow up in California?

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL TIME

The La Tosca Club, a social organization of Sonowa High School girls gave a reception to Miss Ames, the new English teacher and to the "Freshie" girls in the Domestic Science annex last Friday afternoon.

The three classes provided entertainment, each one devoting a half honr to its special features in the gayly decorated serving room.

The girls presented a number of clever musical numbers, guessing contests and other specialties. There were both singing and dancing and the afternoon concluded with the serving of most delicious pineapple and apricot water ice.

Josh Hatfield's father died when Josh was fourteen, and his mother died ten years later. He had from the time of his father's death been learning how to run the farm, though his mother did most of the planning till Josh came of age. There is no better way of learning how to do things than doing them, and by the time Josh came of age he was a very good farmer. His product was milk, and he had twenty good Holstein cows. He had one assistant whom he employed regularly, and at haying time or when he put the ensilage in the silo he would temporarily hire more that is, when he could get any one, which was not very often.

Josh's mother kept the house and the grounds about it looking tidy so long as she lived. After her death there very soon came a change in the appearance of both house and grounds. The floors were unswept, Josh's bed was seldom made and papers were scattered about. The chickens overran the flowers planted in beds on either side of the front porch, and weeds filled the walks. Josh had always left these things to his mother, devoting his whole time to the cattle, raising food for them and delivering the milk. This took up all his time and attention, and when his mother left him the other matters were bound to be neglected, all except the cooking, which was absolutely essential. This Josh did as best he could.

Several dairy farmers living near Hatfield's farm, including Hatfield himself, had an agreement by which one of the number delivered the milk of all at the railway station several miles distant. This they did successively, each man doing the work for a week. One morning Farmer Clark, whose turn it was to deliver the milk for that week, said to his daughter Amelia:

"Meely, go over to Hatfield's and say that Pete has gone lame and Bess is three-quarters sick. If he'll take my turn at delivering the milk this week I'll take his turn next week."

Amelia started out on the errand. She was a strong girl about nineteen years old, as straight as an arrow and tolerably good looking. When she arrived Josh was getting his breakfast, having attended to his morning chores at the barn. Her summons at the front door not receiving any attention, she went around to the side porch, and, making her way through milk cans that blocked the way, found the kitchen door open and Josh trying to blow out a fire of burning fat. Without a word, she went in, took the skillet out of his hand and landed it upside down in the snow outside.

"Thank ye," said Josh, "I wonder why I didn't think of that."

"Reckon men don't know much about kitchen work. Your potatoes will burn in a minute.

Taking up a knife, she ran it through the potatoes, which sizzled merrily and began to turn a beautiful brown. Then she saved some toast from blackening as the potatoes had threatened to do, and turned her attention to the coffee which was boiling over.

"You sit down, Mr. Hatfield," she said, "and I'll put the breakfast on the table for you. You might as well have a little comfort in my being here. Father sent me to say that there's something the matter with the horses and to ask you if you won't take his turn delivering the milk this week, he to take your turn next week."

"Sure! I wouldn't mind that a bit."

Amelia set the breakfast on the table and Josh sat down for the meal. She took a chair opposite him and began to pour his coffee.

"Do you take sugar and milk, Mr. Hatfield?"

"Both."

"Two lumps?"

"That's about right."

The sun shone in at the dining room window, and there was a marked cheerfulness there. But it could not have been for the sun alone, for it lighted the breakfast table most mornings. It seemed that an especial comfort had come in with Amelia. Somehow the coffeepot looked brighter, the toast was certainly better not dried as usual, but soft—and Jack wondered how Amelia had contrived to keep it hot. Then, too, the coffee tasted a great deal better than usual. In short, although he couldn't remember that Amelia had done anything except saving the breakfast from burning it tasted very much better than ever before.

"It must be kind of hard for you to do your own cooking," she remarked.

"I don't like it at all. Nothing I do seems to come out right. I'm always breaking the dishes and don't know how to mend them. If a tooth breaks in my plow I know how to put in another, but if my coffeepot leaks I'm lost."

"Why don't you hire somebody to come in and do your housework for you?"

"I don't know any one that would like the job. All the women about here seem to have enough to do in their own homes without coming here to do my work."
